Blazon. On a disc Azure, issuant from base a demi-sphere Celeste, edged and gridlined Sable, charged with a cross in perspective palewise Gules, as a runway garnished Argent, fimbriated of the third, surmounted in chief a caduceus of the fifth, edged of the third, with the lower portion of the staff of the fourth, issuing two speed lines chevronwise of the fifth; all within a narrow border Yellow.

Attached above the disc, a Blue scroll edged with a narrow Yellow border and inscribed "PREVENTION IS BETTER THAN CURE" in Yellow letters.

Attached below the disc, a Blue scroll edged with a narrow Yellow border and inscribed "56TH AEROSPACE MEDICINE SQ" in Yellow letters.

Motto. Prevention Is Better Than Cure.

Significance. Ultramarine blue and Air Force vellow are the Air Force colors. Blue alludes to the sky, the primary theater of Air Force operations. Yellow refers to the sun and the excellence required of Air Force personnel. The red cross represents strength within the medical arena as well as the "blanket" of medical commitment provided by unit personnel to both flying and nonflying military members. The caduceus, the symbolic staff of a herald, is at the point of the futuristic aircraft. This position signifies that the unit is ready to supply aeromedical support to aircrews, personnel and the environment elements of space. The earth signifies the worldwide commitment of peacekeeping and the environmental protection of air, water and land.
