Emblem. [Group uses wing emblem with group designation in the scroll.] Emblem approved 16 May 2013.

Blazon. Tenné, a chevron Azure fimbriated Or, charged with two lightning bolts conjoined chevronwise of the third, all within a diminished bordure of the like.

Attached below the shield, a White scroll edged with a narrow Yellow border and inscribed “56TH MISSION SUPPORT GROUP” in Blue letters.

Motto. None.

Significance. Ultramarine blue and Air Force yellow are the Air Force colors. Blue alludes to the sky, the primary theater of Air Force operations. Yellow refers to the sun and the excellence required of Air Force personnel. The emblem is symbolic of the Wing. The heraldic chevron represents support and signifies the Wing’s support of the Nation’s quest for peace. The lightning bolt represents the speed and aggressiveness with which the unit performs. The colors represent the Air Corps and commemorate the service of the 56th Fighter Group, whose honors and history the Wing inherits.

Narrative.

Organized as the 56th Airdrome Group at Selfridge Air Force Base, Michigan, on 15 August 1947, the same day as the 56th Fighter Wing. The 56th Mission Support Group is one of the oldest organizations in the wing. The group supported the wing mission in Strategic Air Command's exercises, operations, and training programs. In July 1948, the group provided support to the first west-to-east jet fighter transatlantic crossing along the northern air in reaction to the Soviet Blockade of Berlin, Germany. On 1 August 1948, the group was discontinued and replaced by the 56th Air Base Group. The two groups were later consolidated. Starting in December 1948, the group supported the wing's mission of air defense for a large portion of the northeastern United States. On 6 February 1952, the 56th Air Base Group inactivated, along with the 56th Fighter Wing.

Reactivated with the wing at K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base, Michigan, on 1 February 1961, the group again supported the air defense mission in the Michigan area, and the dispersal of the 62d Fighter Squadron during the Cuban Missile Crisis. On 1 April 1963, the group was redesignated as the 56th Combat Support Group. On 1 January 1964, the group was discontinued and inactivated.

On 8 April 1967, the group reactivated with the wing at Nakhon Phanom Royal Thai Air Force Base, Thailand. In the first year, the wing/base doubled in size. The group supported the wing's mission of employing a wide variety of aircraft to meet specialized missions. Those missions included interdiction, psychological warfare, close air support, search and rescue, forward air control, training Thai and Laotian air forces, and helicopter escort for clandestine insertion and extraction of personnel in Laos and North Vietnam. The group supported the wing's close air support missions during the sieges of Khe Sanh, February-April 1968, and Lima Site 85, January-March 1968. The group support wing elements that participated in the Son Tay Prison raid on 21 November 1970 and continued combat in Vietnam until mid-January 1973, in Laos until 22 February 1973, and in Cambodia until 15 August 1973. The group assisted in the evacuations of Phnom Penh on 11 April 1975 and Saigon, 29-30 April 1975. The group supported forward air control and helicopter insertion/extraction mission during the SS Mayaguez rescue operation on 15 May 1975. Due to its efforts in Thailand, the group was awarded three Presidential Unit Citations, 12 campaign streamers, 4 Air Force Outstanding Unit Awards with Combat "V" Device, and a Republic of Vietnam Gallantry Cross with Palm.

On 30 June 1975, the group moved with the wing to MacDill Air Force Base, Florida. There the group operated the base and the nearby Avon Park Range. It supported the wing's mission to train pilots and weapon system officers learn to fly the F-4D/E and later pilots to fly F-16s. The group provided logistic support to US Central Command beginning in 1983 and to US Special Operations Command after 1986. Between August 1990 and March 1991, the group provided support personnel and equipment to units in Southwest Asia. On 1 November 1991, the group was redesignated as the 56th Support Group. On 4 January 1994, along with all of the other groups in the wing, the 56th Support Group inactivated.

On 1 April 1994, the group reactivated at Luke Air Force Base, Arizona. On 27 September 2002, the group was redesignated as the 56th Mission Support Group. While at Luke Air Force Base, the group continued to support the wing's mission to train F-16 pilots and deploy mission ready Airmen. Most recently the group supported the activation of the 56th Fighter Wing's 54th Fighter Group at Holloman Air Force Base, New Mexico, on 1 March 2014, and the start of training F-35 pilots at Luke Air Force Base. Since 1970, the group earned 29 Air Force Outstanding Unit Awards, four of which were with Combat "V" Device.
