Significance

The orange background was the color of the Army Air Corps and represents the 56th Fighter Group's World War II service. The chevron, representing support, is blue to signify the wing's flights in support of the nation's quest for peace. The lightning bolts are symbolic of speed, aggressiveness, and the capability to strike immediately in any direction.

In September 1918, 2d Lt Frank Luke, Jr., made aviation history in World War I when he wreaked havoc on the aerial fleets of Germany. During an 18-day period, of which Luke only flew 8 days, he destroyed 18 enemy aircraft. Because he targeted the most dangerous prey, the heavily defended observation balloons, he became known as the “Arizona Balloon Buster.” He was the first aviator awarded the Medal of Honor. On June 6, 1941, Litchfield Park Air Base (AB) was redesignated Luke Field in his honor and memory.
The 56th Fighter Wing, one of the most highly decorated aviation units in history, traces its heritage to the 56th Pursuit Group, which first activated on 15 January 1941 at Savannah Air Base, Georgia. Redesignated a fighter group, the unit was equipped with the P-47 Thunderbolt and then reassigned to England. On 13 April 1943, the 56th flew its first combat mission of World War II. During its two-year involvement in the air war in Europe, the group shot down 667 enemy aircraft, more than any other group in the theater. It damaged or destroyed a total of 1,598.5 enemy aircraft. In the process, the 56th only lost 25 pilots in aerial combat while producing 40 fighter aces.

After World War II, the 56th Fighter Group was assigned at Selfridge Field, Michigan. On 15 August 1947, the 56th Fighter Wing was activated with the group as a subordinate unit. The wing's mission was air defense. The unit wrote another chapter in aviation history when on 14 July 1948 its F-80 Shooting Stars made the first ever west-to-east crossing of the Atlantic by military jet fighters. That flight was a month after the Soviets set up their blockade of Berlin, and put the Soviets on notice that the United States was capable of deploying a large package of modern military aircraft across the Atlantic in minimum time. The wing was inactivated on 1 January 1964.

On 16 March 1967, the wing reactivated as 56th Air Commando Wing at Nakhon Phanom Royal Thai Air Force Base (AFB), Thailand. On 1 August 1968, it was redesignated as the 56th Special Operations Wing. The 56th trained Laotian and Thai Air Force personnel, and supported and conducted combat operations against opposing armed enemy forces. It played a major part in trying to win the hearts and minds of the population with its Civic Action Section. It took part in search and rescue, and suppression of enemy defenses missions. As such, it took part in the Battles for Khe San and Lima Site 85, as well as the rescue raid on Son Tay prisoner of war camp and the attempted to rescue of the crew of the United States merchant container ship SS Mayaguez.

Renamed on 30 June 1975, and reassigned to MacDill AFB, Florida, the 56th Tactical Fighter Wing conducted combat aircrew training in F-4s and later fighter training in F-16s. In the early 1990’s, USAF downsized which removed fighter aircraft from MacDill AFB. The renamed 56th Fighter Wing remained in the active fighter force. On 1 April 1994, the wing was reassigned to Luke AFB, Arizona, flying F-16s and the F-15E Strike Eagle. A year later the F-15E training mission moved to Seymour Johnson AFB, North Carolina. On 10 March 2014, the wing received its first F-35A aircraft.

Today, the 56th Fighter Wing, a unit which historically had some of the world’s greatest fighter pilots, continues the mission that has been identified with Luke AFB since 1941: “Train the world’s greatest F-35 and F-16 fighter pilots.”
Brig. Gen. Scott L. Pleus is the Commander, 56th Fighter Wing, Luke Air Force Base, Arizona. The wing's mission is to train the world's greatest F-35 and F-16 fighter pilots. As part of Air Education and Training Command, and home to 23 squadrons with both F-16 and F-35A Lightning II aircraft, the 56th is the largest fighter wing in the U.S. Air Force and graduates more than 300 F-16 pilots and 300 air control professionals annually. The wing is also responsible for the squadrons under the 54th Fighter Group located at Holloman AFB, New Mexico, where F-16 training will move as Luke AFB transitions to become the sole pilot training center for the F-35, the Air Force's newest multi-role aircraft. Additionally, the 56th Fighter Wing oversees the Gila Bend Air Force Auxiliary Field and is steward of the Barry M. Goldwater Range, a military training range spanning more than 1.7 million acres of Sonoran desert.

General Pleus received his commission in 1989 through the Air Force ROTC program at the University of Minnesota-Duluth. During his career, which includes five overseas assignments, he's commanded at the squadron, group and wing levels and was a Secretary of Defense Corporate Fellow at Sun Microsystems in California. Prior to his current assignment, General Pleus served as the Executive Officer to the Chief of Staff of the Air Force, the Pentagon, Washington, D.C.

General Pleus is a command pilot with more than 2,300 flying hours, including combat time earned during operations Desert Fox and Southern Watch.

Colonel William A. Jones III

602d Special Operations Squadron of the 56th Special Operations Wing

1 September 1968

For conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity in action at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty. Col. Jones distinguished himself as the pilot of an A-1H Skyraider aircraft near Dong Hoi, North Vietnam. On that day, as the on-scene commander in the attempted rescue of a downed U.S. pilot, Col. Jones' aircraft was repeatedly hit by heavy and accurate antiaircraft fire. On one of his low passes, Col. Jones felt an explosion beneath his aircraft and his cockpit rapidly filled with smoke. With complete disregard of the possibility that his aircraft might still be burning, he unhesitatingly continued his search for the downed pilot. On this pass, he sighted the survivor and a multiple-barrel gun position firing at him from near the top of a karst formation. He could not attack the gun position on that pass for fear he would endanger the downed pilot. Leaving himself exposed to the gun position, Col. Jones attacked the position with cannon and rocket fire on 2 successive passes. On his second pass, the aircraft was hit with multiple rounds of automatic weapons fire. One round impacted the Yankee Extraction System rocket mounted directly behind the headrest, igniting the rocket. His aircraft was observed to burst into flames in the center fuselage section, with flames engulfing the cockpit area. He pulled the extraction handle, jettisoning the canopy. The influx of fresh air made the fire burn with greater intensity for a few moments, but since the rocket motor had already burned, the extraction system did not pull Col. Jones from the aircraft. Despite searing pains from severe burns sustained on his arms, hands, neck, shoulders, and face, Col. Jones pulled his aircraft into a climb and attempted to transmit the location of the downed pilot and the enemy gun position to the other aircraft in the area. His calls were blocked by other aircraft transmissions repeatedly directing him to bail out and within seconds his transmitters were disabled and he could receive only on one channel. Completely disregarding his injuries, he elected to fly his crippled aircraft back to his base and pass on essential information for the rescue rather than bail out. Col. Jones successfully landed his heavily damaged aircraft and passed the information to a debriefing officer while on the operating table. As a result of his heroic actions and complete disregard for his personal safety, the downed pilot was rescued later in the day. Col. Jones' profound concern for his fellow man at the risk of his life, above and beyond the call of duty, are in keeping with the highest traditions of the U.S. Air Force and reflect great credit upon himself and the Armed Forces of his country.

12 August 1943  First time belly tanks used on the wing's P-47s, but lacked the range to escort bombers deep into Germany.

Capt Gerald M. Johnson  1st Lt Frank E. McCauley  Capt Walker M. “Bud” Mahurin

19 August 1943 Captain Gerald M. Johnson, 61st Fighter Squadron, was the first 56th Fighter Group pilot to claim and be credited with five kills, thus becoming its first ace. Much later, it was determined that one of his 17 August 1943 kills was also claimed by 1st Lt Frank E. McCauley, also of the 61st. They both officially received a half credit taking Johnson to 4.5 kills as of 19 August. As a result, Johnson officially became an ace on 10 October 1943. This meant that on 4 October 1943, Capt Walker M. “Bud” Mahurin, 63d Fighter Squadron, officially became the group’s first ace. All three were aces by the end of the war.

25 November 1943 Group's first fighter-bomber mission, fifty P-47s dropped 500-pound bombs on an airdrome facility in France.

8 May 1944 Captain Robert S. Johnson of the 61st and 62d Fighter Squadrons surpassed the World War I record of Capt Eddie Rickenbacker, when he shot down two enemy aircraft in one day and raised his total to 27.
6 June 1944
During D-Day Invasion, group flew 142 protective cover and air-to-ground sorties.

5 July 1944
Lieutenant Colonel Francis S. Gabreski shot down his 28th aircraft to become the top ace in the European Theater of Operations, but was shot down and captured two weeks later.

7 July 1944
Captain Fred Christensen, Jr., 62d Fighter Squadron, set new record when he destroyed six enemy aircraft in one engagement.

1 November 1944
First Lieutenant Walter R. Groce, of 63d Fighter Squadron was first pilot in the group to take part in shooting down a jet fighter.
On 13 April 1945, group fighters attacked German airfield and destroyed or damaged 190 of the enemy Aircraft parked there.

21 April 1945 The last group combat mission flown over Munich. During its 2-year involvement in World War II, 56th Fighter Group destroyed 667 enemy aircraft in aerial combat, destroyed another 324 on the ground, probable kills totaled 58, and another 543 were damaged.  56th posted that record of 1592 aircraft damaged/destroyed while losing only 25 fighters in aerial combat. Unit produced 40 aces.

11 October 1945 The entire group returned to the United States aboard the Queen Mary.

18 October 1945  56th inactivated at Camp Kilmer, New Jersey.

1 May 1946  56th Fighter Group activated at Selfridge Field, Michigan.

56th Fighter Wing Chronology

15 August 1947 56th Fighter Wing activated as part of Strategic Air Command’s Fifteenth Air Force at Selfridge Field. The wing assumed command jurisdiction over 56th Fighter Group. Other subordinate groups activated as the 56th Airdrome Group, 56th Maintenance and Supply Group, and the 56th Station Medical Group.

2 June 1948 The 56th Fighter wing’s F-80s defended the base from a simulated bombing attack by Boeing B-29 Superfortresses, which were escorted by North American F-51 Mustangs.

14 July 1948 Sixteen 56th Fighter Wing Lockheed P (later, F)-80 Shooting Star jets flew first west-to-east crossing of Atlantic by military jets in 13 days. The mission named Fox Able One proved to the Soviets USAF's ability to deploy large fighter contingents long distances in short time.

A 56th Fighter Wing Lockheed F-80 Shooting Star being loaded with munitions in 1949.

1 December 1948 The wing was reassigned from Strategic Air Command to Continental Air Command's Tenth Air Force.

20 January 1950 Both 56th Fighter Wing and 56th Fighter Group were redesignated as the 56th Fighter-Interceptor Wing and 56th Fighter-Interceptor Group.

25 April 1950 Wing began conversion from to North American F-86 Sabrejet.

1 September 1950 Wing was assigned to Eastern Air Defense Force with the primary mission of air defense.
26 September 1940 56th Fighter Wing conducted a 24-hour aircraft endurance test on an F-86. The aircraft ran for 23 hours, 30 minutes, and 10 seconds. It landed at Selfridge AFB every two hours for refueling and rotated pilots while the engine was running.

17 May 1951 The Lockheed F-94 Starfires of the 61st Fighter-Interceptor Squadron were restricted from flying with external tanks including wing tip tanks. The restriction reduced the average flight time by 75 percent from two hours to thirty minutes.

May 1951 The 172d Fighter-Interceptor Squadron flying F-51 Mustangs left Kellogg Field in Battle Creek, Michigan, and physically joined the wing and group at Selfridge AFB. In 1947, the 172d originally activated as a reserve squadron for 127th Fighter Group. That group and its wing reopened Luke Field as an AFB in 1951. That same month the 56th lost the 62d and 97th Fighter-Interceptor Squadrons to the 142d Fighter-Interceptor Wing.

1 June 1951 The 56th Fighter-Interceptor Wing became responsible for the logistics support for up to 32 Air Control and Warning Squadrons scattered throughout the upper mid-west. Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, North Dakota, West Virginia, and Wisconsin.

21 July 1951 56th Fighter-Interceptor Wing assigned control of the Niagara Falls Municipal Airport.

13 August 1951 The Chief of Staff of the USAF, Gen Hoyt S. Vandenberg, visited Selfridge AFB to officially dedicate the new housing area named in honor of his uncle, the late US Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan.

7 September 1951 56th Maintenance and Supply Group received verbal permission to install a locally manufacture retrofit kit on F-94B aircraft thus completing the modification of the aircraft so they could again fly with wing tip tanks.

7 December 1951 Fourteen people from the US Senate Banking and Currency Committee visited Selfridge AFB to investigate complaints that Airmen had to pay excessively high rents to live in Vandenberg Village. The committee found the claims were “groundless.”

17 December 1951 On the coldest day of the year, the local natural gas company could not keep up with the demand for heating and cooking gas. Therefore, although most of Selfridge AFB used coal for heat, the mess halls could not cook and the houses in Vandenberg Village were without heat. The Michigan National Guard came through with Army field kitchens so the Airmen could eat a hot meal.

1 EADF GO #82, 20 July 1951
6 February 1952 56th Fighter-Interceptor Wing and 56th Fighter-Interceptor Group inactivated at Selfridge AFB.

20 June 1955 56th Fighter Group redesignated 56th Fighter Group (Air Defense).

18 August 1955 56th Fighter Group (Air Defense) activated at O'Hare International Airport, Chicago, Illinois.

1 October 1959 56th Fighter Group reassigned to K. I. Sawyer AFB, Michigan.

1 February 1961 56th Fighter Group (Air Defense) was inactivated and the 56th Fighter Wing (Air Defense) was activated in its place at K. I. Sawyer AFB. The organizations changed to the tri-deputy organization with a Deputy Commander for Operations, Deputy Commander for Maintenance, and a Deputy Commander for Services. The 56th USAF Hospital was an equivalent organization to the deputy commanders. The wing’s mission was to provide trained air defense combat crews for active air defense of the continental United States.

October 1962 The 62d Fighter Interceptor Squadron increased its alert status based on the event surrounding the Cuban Missile Crisis. Some crews and aircraft were dispatched to a dispersal base on a rotating basis for the duration of the crisis.

January 1963 With the worst weather within the previous 50 years, the temperatures dropped to below 0 degrees Fahrenheit for 10 days straight with long periods of wind chill so severe that maintenance personnel could only work for 15 minutes at a time. Using a great deal of overtime, maintenance met the F-101 flying commitment despite a multitude of hydraulic leaks, which made scheduling a problem for the maintenance technicians.

February 1963 The wing headquarters moved into its new Headquarters Building, building #512, at K.I. Sawyer AFB. It was one of many buildings constructed during that time.

1 April 1963 The 56th Fighter Wing reorganized into the Air Defense Command Standard Wing/Base Organization. As such, the 56th Air Base Group was redesignated as the 56th Combat Support Group. It gained the Chief of Manpower And Organization, the Chief of Base Services, and lost the Chief of Supply and Services. The 56th Supply Squadron realigned under the Chief of Supply and the 56th Air Police Squadron reactivated under the 56th Combat Support Group. The Deputy Commander for Maintenance was renamed the Deputy Commander for Material and picked up responsibility for all supply activities in addition to all maintenance activities.
1 April-30 Sep 1963  Highlighted as the very first and second quarters at K.I. Sawyer AFB that the maintenance complex did not experience engine damage due to Foreign Object Damage.

17-18 July 1963  62d Fighter Squadron competed for right to represent 30th Air Division at the upcoming William Tell Meet at Tyndall AFB, Florida, in October. In middle of the second day, the Air Defense Command team arrived for a No Notice Operational Readiness Inspection. Resulting double tasking called for an unusually high number of sorties for the William Tell effort and added those sorties required for the inspection. Additionally, maintenance needed to maintain a satisfactory Operational Ready Rate. The maintenance organization went to around the clock operations for next two days. The inspection included fast aircraft turn arounds, a mass load out, and a practice nuclear weapon accident. Their efforts paid off, the 62d Fighter Squadron scored 140 of 150 possible points to win the right to compete in October and the Maintenance Section passed the inspection.

1 January 1964  56th Fighter Wing inactivated.

16 March 1967  56th Fighter Wing activated and redesignated as the 56th Air Commando Wing.

8 April 1967  56th Air Commando Wing organized, with Col Harry C. Aderholt, commander, as host USAF unit at Nakhon Phanom Royal Thai (RT)AFB, Thailand. It was assigned to Thirteenth Air Force for command and administrative control, & Seventh Air Force for operational control. Initially, the 606th Air Commando Squadron, & from Udorn RTAFB, Thailand, the 602d Fighter Squadron (Commando), were assigned to the wing. Additional units organized were 56th Combat Support Group, 56th USAF Dispensary, 56th Armament and Electronics Maintenance Squadron, 56th Field Maintenance Squadron, 56th Civil Engineering Squadron, 56th Services Squadron, 56th Supply Squadron, 56th Security Police Squadron, and 56th Transportation Squadron. The plan was for the wing/base to double in size within its first year. Its mission supported Royal Thai Air Force & Royal Lao Air Force during combat and non-combat operations, and trained those two air forces to include use of Special Air Warfare Mobile Teams, and maintenance training in Thailand for Royal Lao Air Force. Both countries were fighting wars with in-country insurgencies. Additionally, wing provided experienced, highly qualified personnel & aircraft to assist Royal Lao Air Force and US Embassy in Laos. Wing conducted Civic Action programs in conjunction with Thai government. Finally, they conducted combat and unconventional warfare operations, and maintenance for small embassy aircraft.
The mission of the 606th Air Commando Squadron was to conduct combat operations primarily in Laos, increase the Royal Thai Air Force’s capability, support and fulfill the Thailand Interdefense Plan requirements, train and support the Royal Lao Air Force, and help with USAF operations requirements in Southeast Asia. Those missions included psychological warfare operations. Its combat operations concentrated upon interdicting the flow of traffic on the Ho Chi Minh Trail. To do that, it used its North American T-28 Trojan, Douglas A-26 Invader, Fairchild C-123 Provider, De Havilland U-6 Beaver aircraft. Its Civic Action Section dug wells, privies, and taught sanitation and hygiene classes. The section also sent doctors to rural villages.

The 602d Fighter Squadron (Commando) flew its Douglas A-1 Skyraider aircraft on a number of missions. It took part in search and rescue missions throughout Southeast Asia, to include providing armed escort for the helicopters. It also escorted helicopters on clandestine insertion and extraction of personnel missions in Laos and the Democratic Republic of Vietnam (North Vietnam). Its aircraft conducted armed reconnaissance missions in Laos and parts of North Vietnam. It also struck military targets and acted as forward air controllers in directing strikes against military targets in Laos and North Vietnam. Often the aircrews conducted several of these missions during one sortie.

Pilots from the 602d Fighter Squadron (Commando) struck a number of caves in Northern Laos used by the Pathet-Lao and North Vietnamese communists.

Aircraft from the 602d Fighter Squadron (Commando) hammered targets in the Xam Neua area of northern Laos.
14 May 1967 Captain William C. Cory, of the 480th Tactical Fighter Wing at Da Nang AB, Republic of Vietnam (South Vietnam), landed the first tactical jet at the Nakhon Phanom RTAFB when he landed his McDonnell Douglas F-4C Phantom II because he was short of fuel. He used the new steel matting taxiway opened 11 days earlier as a runway. The taxiway marked the end of the Pierced Steel Planking, known as Marsden Matting, era at the base.

14 May 1967 The wing’s Civil Action Section and Thai medical officials launched a 75-foot medical boat on the Mekong River so that they could reach inaccessible areas during the monsoon rains.

19 May 1967 Firefly 11 of the 602d was hit repeatedly with heavy anti-aircraft fire at 10,000 feet after rolling in from 13,000 feet. His wingman saw the aircraft begin to spin. It impacted the ground near the enemy gun position with no parachutes and no beeper.

May 1967 Start of the monsoon season greatly reduced truck traffic on the Ho Chi Minh trail, thus reducing the number of targets available.

12 June 1967 The Seventh Air Force ordered the 602d Fighter Squadron (Commando) to stop all operations over North Vietnam except for search and recovery missions. Operations in Laos continued.

26 June 1967 The 602d Fighter Squadron (Commando) had a good day. Two aircraft destroying three trucks and struck the adjoining storage area. Six others struck troop and storage targets in the Plaine des Jarres. In both cases, they dropped their ordnance and then directed F-105s in their attacks. One two-ship was credited with destruction of ten storage buildings, damaged others, and counted seven secondary fires and four secondary explosions.

30 June 1967 By this date, all of the 606th Air Commando Squadron’s De Havilland U-6 Beaver aircraft had been replaced with the Helio U-10 Super Courier.

July 1967 The 56th Civil Engineering Squadron was reorganized into four branches: Fire Protection, Operations and Maintenance, Programs, and Engineering and Construction.

4 August 1967 The base established a curfew between 0100 and 0800 Local for military personnel in the town of Nakhon Phanom. The town had more than doubled in size within the last two years. Many military personnel rented bungalows in town helping cause rents to soar and overstrained the electrical and water delivery systems. Additionally, an uptick in the number of cases of Venereal Disease helped convince the commander, Col Aderholt, to establish the curfew.
9 August 1967  Captain Allen S. Cherry of the 602d Air Commando Squadron was Killed in Action while attacking a truck park with his A-1E Skyraider.

August 1967  The completion of the general purpose building allowed the pneudraulic shop, sheet metal shop, machine shop, electrical shop to move out of temporary trailers/vans. Joining them in permanent buildings were the mechanical accessories shop, instrument shop, and Field Maintenance Squadron office.

8 September 1967  56th Supply Squadron converted the supply system to the UNIVAC 1050-II computer from the Punch Card Accounting Machine supply control system a month ahead of schedule. With the computer’s installation, the Comptroller’s Data Automation Section was able to stop being the primary processing agency of supply data for the base.

15 September 1967  The 609th Air Commando Squadron activated taking the Douglas A-26 Invader night interdiction mission from the 606th Air Commando Squadron.

22 September 1967  Colonel Aderholt extended the curfew for the town of Nakhon Phanom to 2400 to 0800 Local. In part, that was because the Venereal Disease rates continued to climb and rents remained about the same. A series of meetings followed as the commander searched for solutions.

30 September 1967  That quarter, the Civic Action Section of the 606th Air Commando Squadron increased its medical, veterinary, dental and public works projects from 4 to 6 first-class health centers and from 13 to 23 second-class health centers. It also began a program to fight rabies in the Nakhon Phanom province.

30 September 1967  By that date, the 602d Air Commando Squadron accomplished multiple missions during Search and Rescue sorties in Laos and North Vietnam. Its aircrews often conducted pre-strike, post-strike/battle damage assessments. Quite often they would use their own ordnance before acting as forward air controllers for the F-105 jet aircraft strikes. During the monsoon season, these sorties became more difficult due to low ceilings precluded that jets from taking part. Those low ceilings combined with the intense anti-aircraft ground fire greatly reduced their ability to conduct battle damage assessments. During the quarter, the squadron dropped over one million pounds of bombs and fired over one million rounds of ammunition and rockets.

30 September 1967  By that date, it became clear to wing leadership that their primary job was to interdict the southbound supply routes from North Vietnam through Laos along the Ho Chi Minh Trail.
September 1967  The reciprocating engine shop, propeller shop, the base engine manager and the propulsion branch leadership moved into a permanent building.

10 October 1967  Colonel Aderholt expanded the curfew for all base personnel for the town of Nakhon Phanom from 2300 to 0800 Local.

26 October 1967  Mobile Training Teams of the 606th Air Commando Squadron were phased out because they had completed their training objectives. Air Commando Advisory Teams were phased in to become advisors. Actually training requirements were heavier than before. But, American personnel were needed other places, thus necessitating the change.

October 1967  As the monsoon began to end, hundreds of trucks were seen on the Ho Chi Minh Trail. Although the wing destroyed up to 142 trucks a week in that quarter, supplies continued to flow south.

October 1967  The eight-man Combat Control Team of the 606th Air Commando Squadron formed in September and became operational in early October. The team started operations with leaflet missions, loudspeaker missions, and parachute jumps.

11 November 1967  The 602d Air Commando Squadron lost an A-1E during a Search and Rescue mission.

20 November 1967  Enemy trucks hid under the thick triple canopy foliage during attacks. Because the foliage could be extremely flammable during the dry season, Col Leonard Volet, the Vice Wing Commander, suggested using incendiary munitions to defoliate the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

27 November 1967  The 21st Helicopter Squadron was assigned to the 56th Air Commander Wing. Previously, it worked for the 507th Tactical Control Group at Shaw AFB, South Carolina. Lieutenant Colonel Harry F. Hauser led the unit flying Sikorsky CH-3 Jolly Green Giant helicopters. It performed Search and Rescue, and airlift missions and drop flares in support of base and Special Forces defenses.

30 November 1967  As four enemy trucks pulled out of a parking area, they were struck and damaged by friendly forces thus blocking the road. Shortly, 50 trucks were stopped upon the road and the 606th Air Commando Squadron’s T-28D Zorros attacked. Despite the heavy anti-aircraft fire, all aircraft returned to base after a highly successful mission. But, five T-28Ds were grounded for over-G stress. Since the T-28Ds had a propensity to be overstressed during high-G maneuvers, to include avoiding anti-aircraft fire, they were given less defended missions after that date.
November 1967  A new tactic proved itself useful when C-123B Candlestick aircrews of the 606th Air Commando Squadron began dropping three ground markings (similar to traffic flares) at one second intervals. Previously, only one marker was used. Since the three markers tended to land in a fairly straight line, it gave both Forward Air Controllers and strike aircraft both distance and a line to calculate their approach to the targets.

1 December 1967  The 456th Munitions Maintenance Squadron, led by Lt Col Donald D. Kaynor, activated as part of the 56th Air Commando Wing. The squadron consolidated all load crews into one unit approximately 18 months after the disaster at Bien Hoa AB, South Vietnam. Cut from the flying squadrons and the 56th Field Maintenance Squadron, the squadron contained the armament, explosive ordinance disposal, gun maintenance, and munitions shops. The 56th Field Maintenance Squadron retained the airborne photo, auto pilot, communications, instrument, navigation, and radar shops.

20 December 1967  The 1st Air Commando Squadron moved from Pleiku AB, South Vietnam to Nakhon Phanom RTAFB, and was reassigned to the wing. Led by Lt Col John A. Saffell, Jr., it previously worked for the 14th Air Commando Wing. Flying Douglas A-1 Skyraider aircraft, it provided air cover and close support to ground forces, directed air strikes on tactical targets, escorted special missions, conducted armed reconnaissance, and Search and Rescue missions.

25 December 1967  The 606th Air Commando Squadron lost a T-28 during an armed reconnaissance mission. The pilot was not recovered and carried as missing in action.

27 December 1967  The wing flew its first MUSCLE SHOALS mission. A number of wing units supported that operation. But, it was the primary mission for the 21st Helicopter Squadron and 1st Air Commando Squadron. Part of the mission required the 21st to lift personnel and electronic devices to lace the Ho Chi Minh Trail with electronic sensors. One problem the project had was precise placement of the sensors. The 21st continued to train and experiment with sensor delivery through the end of that quarter. The 1st Air Commando Squadron implanted anti-vehicular mines at choke points along the trail. Unfortunately, on the first mission the dispensers did not work as planned thus missing dropping the mines. The 56th Armament and Electronic Maintenance Squadron built up, and checked the sensors prior to the missions.

27 December 1967  The 609th Air Commando Squadron lost a A-26 Nimrod in combat.
December 1967  The 609th Air Commando Squadron reported an increased number of trucks struck during the quarter. Pilots believed it was due to better weather, better coordination with the Forward Air Controllers, use of the Starlight Scope by both A-26s and Forward Air Controllers, and dropping more cluster munitions.

29 December 1967  The 609th Air Commando Squadron lost an A-26 west of Route 911. The crew and an on board combat controller were missing.

31 December 1967  During the quarter the Civic Action Section started, helped or supervised the construction and installation of hundreds of wells and privies in the poorest areas of Thailand. Those actions immediately improved the sanitation and health of those people, thus improving their view of the Royal Thai Government.

December 1967  The A-1 Sandy aircraft of the 602d Air Commando Squadron assisted in the rescue of 29 downed fliers during the quarter.

2 January 1968  The engine of Zorro 11 (T-28) of the 606th Air Commando Squadron failed over Laos causing the pilot, Maj John R. Pattee, to bail out before the aircraft crashed.

7 January 1968  While two 602d Air Commando Squadron A-1s, Sandy 1 and 2, were on a Search and Recovery mission near Sam Nuea, Laos, close to the North Vietnamese border, two MiG-21s fired two Air-to-Air missiles at them. The incident caused the Sandies to reduce their pre-planned orbits from 18 to two.

17 January 1968  Near Xom Duong, North Vietnam, the 602d Air Commando Squadron lost an A-1 while on a Search and Recovery mission.

17 January 1968  The 1st Air Commando Squadron began dropping both anti-vehicular mines and micro-gravel along the Ho Chi Minh Trail, especially at choke points.

18 January 1968  MiG-21s engaged A-1s of the 602d Air Commando Squadron while they were over a crash site.

20 January 1968  21st Helicopter Squadron flew its first CH-3 combat mission.

21 January 1968  The North Vietnamese Army attacked the Khe Sanh Combat Base in northwestern Quang Tri Province, South Vietnam, just miles south of the Demilitarized Zone.

22-28 January 1968  A-26 Nimrods of the 609th Air Commando Squadron destroyed 124 trucks in southeastern Laos for the largest weekly total for the quarter.

19-31 January 1968  The 602d Air Commando Squadron stepped up operational support to Lima Site 85 in Northern eastern Laos. Lima Site 85 was a radar and tactical air navigation (TACAN) system site used by Airmen to navigate in the rugged jungle terrain of Northeastern Laos.

Operations.

The wing supported exercises, operations, and training programs of Strategic Air Command, 1947-1948. It pioneered the first west-to-east jet fighter transatlantic crossing along the northern air route in July 1948 and provided air defense for a large portion of the northeastern United States, December 1948-February 1952. The 56th provided air defense in the Michigan area, 1961-1963. It performed combat in Southeast Asia, April 1967-August 1973, and combat support until June 1975, employing a wide variety of aircraft to meet specialized missions. Those missions included interdiction, psychological warfare, close air support, search and rescue, forward air control, training Thai and Laotian air forces, and helicopter escort for clandestine insertion and extraction of personnel in Laos and North Vietnam. Provided close air support during the sieges of Khe Sanh, February-April 1968, and Lima Site 85, January-March 1968. Wing elements participated in the Son Tay Prison raid on 21 November 1970 and continued combat in Vietnam until mid-January 1973, in Laos until 22 February 1973, and in Cambodia until 15 August 1973. The 56th assisted in the evacuations of Phnom Penh on 11 April 1975 and Saigon, 29-30 April 1975. Provided forward air control and helicopter insertion/extraction support during the SS Mayaguez rescue operation on 15 May 1975. Upon return to the United States on 30 June 1975, it absorbed resources of the 1st Tactical Fighter Wing and operated MacDill AFB and nearby Avon Park Range, Florida. The wing conducted F-4D/E replacement training for pilots, weapon systems officers, and maintenance personnel, July 1975-July 1982. It was equipped with UH-1P helicopters, 1976-1987, to support Avon Range logistics needs, search and rescue efforts, and humanitarian missions. With conversion to F-16A/B aircraft in 1980-1982, the 56th became the designated unit for transitioning USAF and select allied nation pilots into the new fighter, while continuing to augment NORAD's air defense forces in the southeastern US. The wing provided logistic support to US Central Command beginning in 1983 and to US Special Operations Command after 1986. It upgraded to F-16C/D aircraft in 1988-1990, providing support personnel and equipment to units in Southwest Asia, August 1990-March 1991. Beginning in 1994, the wing primarily provided combat crew training to US and Allied services. In 2014, the wing received its first F-35A aircraft and began training.

Sikorsky CH-53 Super Jolly Green Giant Tail No. 68-10933, 21st Special Operations Squadron, 56th Special Operations Wing offloads troops in Southwest Asia. On 14 May 1975, this helicopter crashed during the Mayaguez Incident killing all 23 Airmen aboard.
History of Luke AFB

On 8 August 1940, the same day the Battle of Britain began, President Franklin D. Roosevelt directed the military to produce 12,000 pilots annually. In response to that order, the Army Air Corps conducted feasibility studies for the construction of eight new airfields. Phoenix City Manager Donald C. Scott announced on 13 February 1941 that the War Department had approved a site two miles north of the town of Litchfield Park, Arizona, for the construction of an advanced single engine flying training base. The site not only had almost year-round flying weather, but it also enjoyed proximity to vast stretches of Sonoran Desert that were ideal for bombing and gunnery practice. Two days later, Lt Col Ennis C. Whitehead arrived in the area to supervise construction of the base and to act as its first commander.

Ground was broken for Litchfield Park Air Base on 31 March 1941, and on 6 June 1941 the installation was renamed Luke Field for 2d Lt Frank Luke, Jr., a Phoenix native who was a World War I ace and the first aviator to be awarded the Medal of Honor. The first student pilot class began training the next day. During World War II, Luke Field produced 17,321 graduates from fighter training programs for the US and its allies. The base closed on 30 November 1946.

Luke was redesignated an air force base when it reopened on 1 February 1951 in response to a need for fighter aircrews generated by the Korean Conflict. The base was initially equipped with F-51 Mustang and F-84 Thunderjet aircraft. In 1957, Luke AFB joined the supersonic age when the North American F-100 Super Sabre was assigned to the base. That was followed in 1964 by foreign military sales programs in the F-104 Starfighter and the F-5A Freedom Fighter. The A-7D Corsair arrived in 1969, but was reassigned shortly when USAF decided to make Luke AFB the Air Force's primary F-4 Phantom II training base. The first F-4 was assigned in 1971. The first of the "Superfighters," the F-15 Eagle, was assigned to the base in 1974 followed in 1982 by the second "Superfighter," the F-16 Fighting Falcon. Then the F-15E Strike Eagle arrived in 1988. Three years later, USAF’s decision to make Luke AFB the service’s primary F-16 training base led to the reassignment of the F-15 and four years later, in 1995, the F-15E was reassigned.

Prior to the reassignment of the F-15E, the real world political and military situation resulted in a perceived lessening of international tensions and resulted in a down-sizing of the nation’s military. Senior Air Force leadership moved to ensure the most highly decorated units in USAF history remained part of the active force during the drawdown. That led to the reassignment of one of the most highly decorated units in USAF history, the 56th Fighter Wing, from scheduled-to-close MacDill AFB, Florida, to Luke AFB on 1 April 1994. On 1 August 2012 and 27 June 2013, the Air Force announced that Luke AFB would be the F-35A Pilot Training Center for 72 aircraft and then for another 72, respectively, totaling 144 aircraft. On 10 March 2014, the first F-35A landed at Luke starting the next period in the history of Luke Air Force Base. Since 1941, Luke has produced over 58,800 graduates from fighter training programs for the US and its allies and is truly: “Fighter Country.”

* Included 144 graduates assigned to 944th Fighter Wing who received ground training from 56TRS and, therefore, were included in 56th Fighter Wing graduate totals, and 65 Forward Air Controller (Airborne) graduates trained by mobile training teams (MTT).

 Total incomplete as MTT training not documented prior to 1982, 51-50 checkouts not formal course prior to early 1990s. Total was for US/Foreign Military Sales graduates of syllabus courses, not individual students as some graduated from more than one course. Because of incomplete statistics, exact total not possible; however, it is accurate to say, "Luke is the world's largest fighter training base and produced over 58,800 graduates from fighter training programs from 1941 through FY14."

F-16C at Sunset

Tenne on a chevron azure fimbriated or two lightning flashes chevronwise of the last.

Motto

CAVE TONITRUM (Beware of the Thunderbolt)

Significance

The orange background was the color of the Army Air Corps and represents the 56th Fighter Group's World War II service. The chevron, representing support, is blue to signify the wing's flights in support of the nation's quest for peace. The lightning bolts are symbolic of speed, aggressiveness, and the capability to strike immediately in any direction. "Cave Tonitrum," Beware of the Thunderbolt!
