Senior Master Sergeant Andria C. McGuire

Senior Master Sergeant Andria C. McGuire serves as the Senior Enlisted Leader of the Medical Support Squadron, Luke Medical Group, Luke Air Force Base, Arizona. She leads 182 active duty and civilian personnel spanning across eight flights, who deliver world-class medical support to 7,000 Total Force Airmen. Her team advances multinational operations for seven partner nations and 27 squadrons across the U.S. Air Force's largest fighter wing. She advises commanders on manpower optimization, resource allocation, directly enabling the base's $11.4 billion dollar mission. Sergeant McGuire also serves as the Base Functional Manager for the Dental career field.

Sergeant McGuire previously served as the Senior Enlisted Leader of the Luke Operational Medical Readiness Squadron, Luke Air Force Base, Arizona. She led the Medical Group's largest squadron of 185 personnel, spanning across eight Air Force Medical Home Teams.

Sergeant McGuire hails from Memphis, Tennessee. She entered the Air Force in December 2002. After completing Basic Military Training, she attended Command Post Apprentice technical training at Keesler Air Force Base, Mississippi, graduating in April 2003. She later retrained and graduated from the Dental Assistant Apprentice course at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas in 2005. Her assignments have included bases in Missouri, Texas, and California.
